M.Hepsipa Beula of II MBA gave a seminar on 'Time Management'. Stressing the need for time planning in the current administrative scenario, she pointed out that success goes to those who are prompt and punctual. This requires a proper evaluation of the tasks and sub tasks viz-a-viz the time available. Each task should be evaluated for its role in the total process and time allotted suitably. The students entered into active interaction.

C.Sethumadhavan of II MBA gave an interactive session on various ways of introducing oneself in public fora like seminars, symposia, conferences, etc. He drove home the dangers of sounding over confident or too diffident. One should not sound boastful or should there be any false humility. One should focus on one's strong points without giving the impression of self advertisement. He stressed the importance of proper turnout, gestures, eye contact and acceptable phrasing of remarks
